AND NEWSY.BURNS GETS DRAW WITH O'BRIEN IN BLOODY BATTLE

"He Surprised Me!"—O'Brien.
"I Licked Him Good!"—Burns.
"Me to the Alfalfa!"—Jeff.

"Burns surprised me, but if he hadn't fouled me repeatedly by hitting in clinches and roughing it I would have surely put him out. I'll fight him again, and the next time I shall be prepared to meet him at his own game."—Jack O'Brien.

"I licked O'Brien out of his boots, and I can do it again every time we meet. He knows it as well as I do, and the only thing I am afraid of is that he'll run out of the country to get away from me."—Tommy Burns.

"It was a good fight as far as it went. Burns did most of the fighting, but O'Brien's cleverness had to be taken into consideration. He did some pretty footwork at times. The fight was a disappointment to me in a way. I guess it's back to the alfalfa for me if these are the best heavyweights in the game now."—Jim Jeffries.

(Special to The Evening World)
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—Tommy Burns and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien fought a fierce twenty rounds here last night. According to Referee Jim Jeffries's decision it was a draw. But many of the spectators thought Burns had the best of it.

Right at the beginning of the battle the foxy Philadelphian's dancing tactics had Burns so flurried that he ran into clinches to save himself from a jabbing and tapping that did no damage worth mentioning. But as the fight went on Burns got more and more confidence, until he gave up all effort to save his face, and chased O'Brien around the ring, mauling him with furious rights and lefts that reduced the dapper and debonair Quaker to a blood-spattered, pale and ghastly caricature of the confident scrapper of an hour before.

It was a bloody fight, and it was all O'Brien's blood. Before the fight was half over Jim Jeffries's pale pink shirt had turned to a dull crimson. Jim's hands were covered with blood from his efforts in separating the fighters during the frequent clinches. For a so-called "champion" O'Brien made a sorry showing, and more than once Jeffries shook his head with a grim smile as Jack pranced backward around the ring to escape Burns's furious and headlong dashes.

And as for Tommy Burns, although he showed eagerness enough he proved that he wasn't quite the man to fit Jeffries's shoe. He hammered O'Brien to a pulp, but couldn't even knock him down. The contrast there, in the ring—big Jim Jeffries towering above both Burns and O'Brien like a giant between two dwarfs—almost made a joke of the championship pretensions of both the little heavyweights.

O'Brien Was Lucky.

O'Brien may count himself a lucky man. He weathered the hailstorm of blows that Burns landed on him round after round, and had enough left to make a hard finish. In the twentieth, when everybody was on tiptoe expecting to see the long-armed midget heavyweight put over the final wallop, "Philadelphia Jack" suddenly came to life and turned the tide of fighting the other way. Burns slowed up after making savage efforts to reach the agile gentleman in front of him. There was a short clinch. As the men broke at Jeffries's order, Burns made a vicious swing and missed. Before he could strike O'Brien sprang nimbly in and crossed a broad gulf to Burns's right, clinching again as soon as he fell in with the force of the blow. Burns didn't fall, but he staggered, and tried to back away for the first time in many rounds.

In an instant every O'Brien supporter in the house was on his feet, yelling like a Comanche Indian. O'Brien responded with a fusillade of short-arm hooks that sent Burns staggering away, and then, just as it seemed possible that the doughty Burns might tumble over, the bell rang and the fight was finished. This last spurt of O'Brien's barely saved him from a bad loss, but Jeffries promptly held up both hands to indicate that his decision was a "draw."

The Burns crowd stood up in their chairs around the ringside and howled their disapproval, but none climbed into the ring to discuss the matter with Jeff.

Burns, who had an eye closed, glared at Jeff and O'Brien alternately, and seemed inclined to kick—but his seconds hustled him away. O'Brien seemed very well satisfied. He was covered with blood and looked as if he had been run over by a steam roller.

After the fight O'Brien said: "Burns surprised me, but if he hadn't fouled me repeatedly by hitting in the clinches and roughing it I would have surely put him out. I'll fight him again, and next time I'll be prepared to meet him at his own game."

Big Crowd Present.

The fight was held in the Pacing Athletic Club of Los Angeles. Early in the evening the great pavilion began to fill. Every car line leading out to it was nearly swarmed with sight-seers. Hundreds of motor cars and private carriages brought enthusiasts from all over.

Long before it was time for the fight to begin the pavilion was packed to the outer doors. The aisles filled until finally the fire department officials ordered them cleared. In the midst of the confusion the single preliminary started. It was a dull ten-round affair, just interesting enough to whet the appetite of the spectators for the great battle that was to follow.

Eight thousand spectators witnessed the annual football game to day at Washington Park, Brooklyn, between the Boys' High and Poly Prep schools. Two thirty-minute halves were played. The Boys' coming on the field at 3 o'clock. John Stapleton, New York, and Dr. Alfred Head, headlining.

Poly Prep kicked off and Halstead caught the ball, but fumbled. Kuhl made the first down for Poly Prep, the ball passed to Boys' High on a fumble, and was gradually and surely carried to the Poly Prep line, where T. Arnold made the first touchdown. The Quakers tried for goal and failed. Score: Boys' High, 6; Poly, 0.

Wadler brought the ball back thirty yards by a grand punt against the wind. Kuhl got the ball, and by grand line backing Kelly went over on the third run. Halstead pointed out, and O'Connell tried for goal and failed.

Score: Boys' High, 10; Poly, 0.

Montgomery favored with the high wind botched the ball, and was stopped on the line, but the ball was brought back by a 25-yard line. There were two downs when Kelly broke across and Halstead scored. Score: Boys' High, 16; Poly, 0.

The game up to this time (the whistle ending the half soon after) was a dead heat. Boys' High slightly outdistanced their opponents at every point of the game.
